

WHISPERS.

Most girls, at least it is said, wear their hearts upon their sleeves; but there is a certain crowd who have gone so far as to wear them on their natural left sides, in plain sight, and in all their peculiar stages of being, whole, broken, or lost. The fact is there was to be a breaking up of a college girls' club— one of them was to be married during the week—and before the event they all gathered together for the last time to do things up "Brown." Then it was, ranged crosswise up the porch steps to have their pictures taken, that one discovered the particular malady of each by words painted in large black letters on a big red paper heart which each girl had printed on her dress. One pathetically announced "Broken," though nobody would have guessed it from the roguish expression on her face; another, the active state of "Going," and still another mournfully "Gone!" One was "Took," without any regard for bad grammar, one was "Faded," and another unobtrusively confessed "Bids Solicited," and another brazenly, "C. O. D." It did not take a paper heart notice to tell which was "Sold," for a mosquito bar net, trailing in the dust, and a huge bunch of sunflowers, gave the story with silent eloquence. Nor did the fun end here. Presto, and with sly insinuation the man in each case stepped, phantom-like, into view; a girl at a wash tub, indicative of a miner's wife; with a broom, of a lawyer's; with a tin pan and stick, of a musician's wife; and no end of all kinds of wives. To complete the picture was a girl with a cat under one arm and a parrot under the other, and "specks" on her nose, and a laughing pair of eyes that denied the rest. As a grand finale they all sang "Goodbye" with the happiness which comes from such a lark, and yet with a glimmer of regret for the end.

Golden glow seems to have become a sort of "radium" to the polite world.

It takes a man to appreciate military, paradoxical as it sounds; for on the same principle as blue is not blue unless one is there to see it, there are none of these ecstasies, or in terms of the news, "intimations" of the belles of society over fall bonnets existent unless a man's eyes are present to see. For what young lady would think of regarding a bonnet in any other phase than as a bonnet? If a girl eyes herself in this light and that light before a mirror the first young lady would not question her right to do so, or ascribe to it any other motive than to see that the bonnet sets at a right angle on her head. But man! Man looks at that hat least of all as a hat; to him it is—unless predominated over by a bill to foot—as a vanity of vanities, caprice, foolishness, recklessness, extravagance, morbid delight. He seeks deep for causes, and discovers a hundred results. More truthfully speaking, it is man and not woman who views the hat at this angle and that angle and the other. A hat to him is anything but a hat in the ordinary sense. A girl could well enough go bare-headed, but if she did man would be the loser—first in pure pleasure of the eye, and next in that his field for witticisms would be only half as big.

The younger set will begin to feel rather desolate after this week, when most of the boys and girls will have left for schools or colleges. Those who have already gone are Will Harris and Lyman Judson, on the 10th for Cornell, and Julian Ramberger, George Critchlow for Princeton, George Critchlow for Lawrenceville, Mass. W. H. Tibbals for Oberlin; from the University of Utah, Dan Alexander, Ike Alexander, Dale Parks, Will Nottel and Elbert Thomas to the University of Pennsylvania. Ben Harris returns to Ann Arbor this year, and Roger Sherman left a week ago for Yale. Harold Fabian leaves next Thursday also to resume his studies at Yale. John Jensen of the U. of U. goes Tuesday to Washington to study law at the Columbia university. Levi Riter has left for Cornell. Those who attend the Boston Tech, this year are Mont Elliot, Will Reilly and Frank Niles. Miss Edith Sutherland and Miss Stella Fabian will be at Miss Bennett's seminary on the Hudson. The Misses Rae and Olive Baruch leave for Miss Mason's school in New York the early part of October. Those entering at other places are: Miss Helen Boxrud, Wellesley; Miss Julia Cullen to start on the 20th for the same place; Miss Mary Sherman, who has been living in Berkeley the past year, for National Park seminary; Miss Elsie Parsons, some time in October for Huntington Hall, Los Angeles; and the Misses Hazel Holmes and Bertha Tyree for Belmont, Tenn. Edna Dunn left last Wednesday for Georgetown.

Weddings and Engagements.

The social event of the week, and one of the most elaborate of the year, took place Wednesday, when Miss Leta McMillan and Raymond S. Masson of San Francisco were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. McMillan. Rev. W. M. Faden performed the ceremony, which took place under a canopy of plumosa and asters, with a shower of sweet peas, at 8 o'clock. C. R. Weymouth of San Francisco acted as best man and Gordon McMillan as attendant. The first of the bridal party to enter the room, beautiful besides with Japanese lilies and palms, were the ribbon bearers, Miss Norline Thompson and Miss Aline McMillan, and the little ringbearer, Dorothy Adams, in dainty white frocks with pink bows. Miss Bess McMillan, the maid of honor, and Miss Mildred Mc-Millan, and Miss Leta Trent, also of San Francisco, the bridesmaids, wore pink radium silk over pink silk, and carried pink roses. Miss McMillan, who came last of all, was beautiful in a gown of chiffon over satin, trimmed with rose point lace, a real lace veil, an heirloom of the family, caught up in her hair with the gift of the groom, a diamond sunburst. She carried bride's roses, with a shower of lilies of the valley. Immediately after the ceremony, which was attended by all the five hundred guests of the evening, the reception began, at which Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Thomas Weir and Mrs. J. H. Dinwiddie assisted. Others at the punch bowl and at the table were the Mesdames Jay T. Harris, A. D. Cleveland, W. H. Cunningham and James Finlen, and the Misses Laura Sherman, Gertrude McGrath, Moss Kirkpatrick, Addie Zane and Winifred Brice. All the rooms were beautifully decorated, the dining-room in pink Japanese lilies and pink ribbon, the drawing-room in American Beauties, and the back parlor in palms and white asters. Miss Leta McMillan, the bride, since her return from National Park seminary, of which she is a graduate, has been one of the most popular and beautiful of society leaders, and Mr. Masson is one of the most prominent electrical engineers of California. Hence many good wishes attend them on their wedding tour of unknown destination. Their future home has not been decided upon.

Miss Lillian Horne and Shirley Woolley were married at the Temple Wednesday morning, and later were given a reception by Miss Horne's mother, Mrs. Mary S. Horne, at which Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Horne, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Horne, Mrs. Ida Woolley, Mrs. H. C. Fyfer, Mrs. W. J. Horne, Mrs. T. R. Horne, Mrs. M. M. Wood and Miss L. T. Whitney assisted. Purple asters in three shades decorated the library, and sunflowers, the hall. In the parlors trailing vines and sweet peas gave pretty heart-shaped facts. Behind a bank of golden glow and apparatus fern in the drawing-room, the Misses Daisy Raybould, Lorilla Horne and Etta Lambert served punch. The gown of the bride was a duchess of white peau de crepe, with an old lace bertha of the bride's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Woolley will be at home after October 15 at 338 East Fourth South street.

An afternoon wedding of Wednesday was that of Miss Myra Sowles to Griffith H. Roberts of Denver, with Melvin Sowles as best man, Miss Clara Sowles as bridesmaid and little Harper Sowles, ringbearer. Rev. Dr. J. B. McDougal of Leaville performed the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Sowles. After the wedding, at which sixty intimate friends were present, Mr. and Mrs. Dinwiddie assisted at the reception, together with Mrs. M. H. Sowles, Mrs. Charles Peck, Mrs. O. T. Hannold, and the Misses Winifred Lynn, Cora Wilcox and Beattie Williamson. Mrs. Peters sang the bridal chorus, accompanied by Miss Beatrice Davis on the piano. The bride's gown was of white silk net over tulle, trimmed with old lace, and a veil of tulle. The parlors were in white asters, with a wedding bell of the same flowers over the place of ceremony. Sunflowers decked the dining-room, and red carnations, the hall. The couple left during the day for the coast. On their return in October they will make their home in Silverton, Colo.

The marriage of Miss Mamie Hines and Clayton J. Thatcher took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hines, the ceremony being performed by Judge George G. Armstrong. Only the immediate family were present at the wedding, but immediately afterward the couple received their young friends. Those who assisted were Miss Ruby Lambourn and Miss Cora Little, at the punch bowl, and Mrs. Thatcher, Mrs. Frank T. Hines, Miss Della Hines, Miss Clara Thatcher, Miss Della Thatcher, Miss Mamie Hines and Miss Lillian James. Miss Vera Hines was flower girl. The flowers for the rooms were white asters in the parlor, together with palms and plumosa, and red gladiolas in the dining-room. The dress of the bride was a princess, embroidered in place, trimmed with lace. Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher will be at home at 556 Sixth street after October 1.

The marriage of Miss Mollie Alexander and Adolph H. May took place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Wilson hotel, where Mrs. Stelmman, the bride's sister, in staying, Rabbi Freund performed the ceremony. There were no attendants to the couple, besides Max Alexander, who gave the bride away. The bride's dress was a princess of white radium silk, trimmed with lace, and her bouquet, bride's roses. Roses and carnations formed the decorations of the apartment. A dinner at the Wilson, at which twenty-five guests were present, followed the ceremony, after which the couple left for Los Angeles in Mr. Dyer's private car. They will be gone about a month, visiting points along the coast before returning to Salt Lake to make their home.

A very pretty wedding of the week was that of Miss Charlotte Marcroft and Arthur T. Kelly, which took place last Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's father, Joseph Marcroft. Judge William H. King performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Edna, and the groom by L. B. Spencer, of Ogden. The couple followed the ceremony at which Mrs. W. E. Schmutz, Miss Eleanor Marcroft, Miss Emma Marcroft, Miss Sadie Page and Miss Nellie Page assisted. The young couple will be at home at their friends at No. 2 Brown court after September 25.

Miss Xenia Druce and Fred L. Shodor of Seattle, who were quietly married by Bishop T. H. Williams Wednesday, were given a reception Thursday evening at the bride's home, at which some sixty guests were present. The rooms were in golden glow, dahlias and sweet peas. Mrs. Shodor received in her wedding gown of pearl gray silk, and carried white roses. Mrs. E. M. Druce, Miss Ethel Druce, the Misses Anna and Lucy Kingsbury and Miss Gertrude Hartwell were a few of those who assisted. The couple left after the reception for Seattle, where they will make their home at present.

Miss Jennie Johnson and Walter F. Reed were quietly married Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson, Rev. P. A. Simpkin officiating. Later a supper was given them. The young couple will make their home at 918 East Fourth South street.

The announcement was made during the week of the marriage of Miss Elsie Lyons to Harry Anderson of Omaha.

The marriage of Miss Helen Buckingham to Wayne Grovold Hemphill is announced to take place October 10.

The marriage of Miss Pearl Pelree and Eugene Smith will take place September 26 at the First Congregational church. Rev. E. I. Goshen performed the ceremony, which is to be an elaborate one. Following this Mrs. M. L. Snow will give a dinner for the bridal couple and their intimate friends.

The announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Marie E. Myton, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. H. P. Myton of this city, to Henry A. Haack of California. The couple will be at home after November 1 at the Hotel Lankershim in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ward announce the engagement of their daughter, Hattie, to Henry J. Birch, the wedding to take place early in October.

The wedding of Miss Della Burns and F. J. Foulger takes place on September 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Theriot announce the engagement of their daughter, Adeline, to William J. Pirt, the marriage to take place September 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Deighton announce the engagement of their daughter, Clara Louise, to John Eugene Broadus. The wedding will take place October 10.

Mrs. A. B. Davis announces the engagement of her daughter, Estelle May, to H. Clayton Herrick of Ely, Nev., the marriage to take place in October.

A Leyson Sale of two things worth having, Monday to Saturday September 17th to 22nd.

100 Quadruple silver plated breadtrays at, each $1.50
25 Quadruple silver plated baking dishes, each $4.50

Few people who have sterling silver spoons and knives will spend $150 for a sterling silver baking dish, or $30 for a sterling silver bread tray, but if a beautiful quadruple plated baking dish, artistic design, finished in French gray and guaranteed to be fit to serve a generation, can be bought for $4.50, it's only those who do not know what a baking dish is for who won't buy one. The same can be said of a $1.50 bread tray, that can be bought for $1.50.

The pith of this advertisement is this:

We will sell 100 full size quadruple plated bread trays of beautiful design, finished in French gray for, each . . . $1.50

25 large quadruple plated baking dishes with cover finished in French gray for, each . . . $4.50

As good a bread tray cannot be bought in Utah for less than $3.00, and as good a baking dish for less than $9.00.

Buying in quantities for cash and selling goods quick at a small profit, makes this possible.

Leyson's brand of goods is a guarantee of quality.
